

Service Honor Roll Nears 500 Names Of Men, Women Serving

Honor Roll and Picture Display Promised For Next Week As List Grows Bigger and Bigger

There are now 493 names of Newmarket men and women in the services on the Victory loan honor roll being compiled by the Newmarket Lions club under the chairmanship of Second Vice-President H. E. Gilroy.

There may be a few names missing from the list still, Mr. Gilroy thinks. Pictures of the boys and girls are being sent to Mr. Gilroy fairly well, but there are still many pictures missing for the display which he expects to put in the municipal office window about the middle of next week.

The list includes Newmarket and homes adjacent to the town limits.

Complaints About Era And Express Made To Council

By ANDREW HEBB

Speaking for two members of the Newmarket Veterans Association, and not for the Association, as his statement implied, Deputy-Reeve Arthur D. Evans voiced criticism of The Era and Express before a town council meeting on Monday evening.

Mr. Evans asked that his remarks be not reported, and consequently The Era and Express representative made no notes. I was not present but I am informed that what Mr. Evans said was to the following effect:

"I have been asked by the Veterans to bring this before you. You will remember that the Express-Herald published letters from the boys overseas acknowledging cigarettes and parcels sent them by the Veterans. For some reason or other the Newmarket Era was not given these letters, although they asked for them. The Express-Herald was also sent to the boys.

"Since then the papers were amalgamated and the Veterans have been giving the letters to The Newmarket Era and Express, but they have not been published.

"The Veterans were wondering if they might not have a column written bringing out the interesting points of the letters, so that people will know that the boys are getting these parcels. They also suggested that we might have a board upon which the letters could be pinned."

The mayor and council told Mr.

Evans that the proper place to take his complaint was to The Era and Express. So far Mr. Evans has not come to see us.

Mr. Evans also complained that a lady had paid a dollar to The Era and Express for a year's subscription for her son overseas, although the town had undertaken to pay these overseas subscriptions at the half-price rate, and that The Era and Express had refused to return this dollar.

The council told Mr. Evans that the arrangement made with The Era and Express was that the town would pay for subscriptions not paid for by relatives. I explained this to Mr. Alex. McIntosh on Saturday afternoon. He told me that Mr. Evans did not understand it that way, and I then telephoned the same information to Mr. Evans' home.

Mr. Evans himself made the motion at the Feb. 1 council meeting, which was reported in The Era and Express of Feb. 4 in these words: "The town council unanimously agreed to assume responsibility for the balance, those subscriptions not paid for by friends and relatives."

The council took this action after the issuing of a dominion government order that mailings for overseas destinations must be confined to copies addressed to bona fide subscribers, that is, persons whose subscriptions have been paid either by themselves or by someone on their behalf.

The lady in question paid the subscription just as a number of other citizens have paid for subscriptions for their boys. She has not asked this office for a rebate. If she should do so, the account can be presented to the town in (Page 10, Col. 5)

WANTS FOURTH R ADDED TO CURRICULUM

O.E.A. Urges Religious Education And Better Health Control In Public Schools
By REV. J. A. KOFFEND, Chairman of the Newmarket Public School Board

Without argument, a general consensus of opinion among speakers addressing members of the Ontario Educational Association, at their convention held in Toronto during the week of April 27, can be stated in a few words. The great need for the schools of Ontario is religious education.

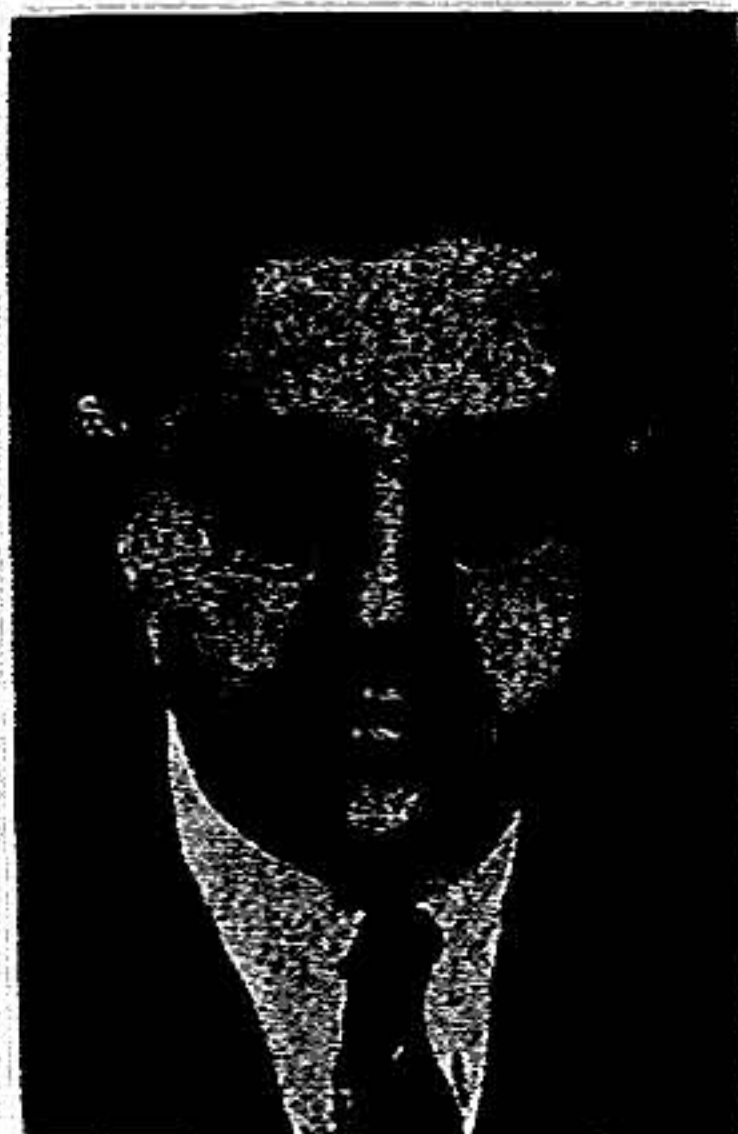

To quote from an address of R. S. Hosking, general secretary of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A., "there is evidence that our children are illiterate as far as the Bible is concerned." He further urged that a fourth R be added to those of education, namely, the R for religious education. This sentiment was voiced by the majority of speakers throughout the entire convention. Mr. Clifford Howard, trustee for the York Township Board of Education, stressed the need for religious education as part of the school curriculum.

A most powerful and searching address delivered was that of Judge G. W. Morley of Owen Sound who spoke to the trustees and ratepayers' section reminding his hearers that "unless we take care of the job of looking after our youth, we can expect another era of lawlessness such as swept this country after the last war. Juvenile delinquency has increased forty-five percent in Canada during the war and something must be done about the youth of our land." Judge Morley deplored the fact that the Home located in Bowmanville had been closed to the work of helping retard juvenile delinquency. "It is the greatest problem on the home front and it is high time it was given immediate attention."

"The demands of war upon manpower and womanhood has increased the threat to our children's welfare as the war lengthens, and the problems thrust at communities must be met at staggering costs. It will be hardly worthwhile to win the war overseas and at the same time lose it at the home front! And that is just what we are heading for if we continue to go on as we have been."

"Seventy-five percent of the delinquents are from broken homes. Lack of home training and religious training is one of the causes of crime." Before closing his address the Judge took time to reiterate the great need for adequate community medical treatment available for all, universal religious education, no curtailing of school activities and more playground supervision for our children. "Community life must function at the peak of its efficiency, and our common task must be to protect (Page 2, Col. 6)

The auxiliary committee of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind reports a total of $307 from the tag on May 1. Unbounded enthusiasm was displayed by the numerous girls who tagged. They did a good job in a good cause. The tag proceeds were $40 over last year. The full proceeds will be published next week, as all subscriptions have not been received.

The captains of the tag day were Mrs. N. L. Mathews, Mrs. J. E. Morris and Mrs. Harold Garrett. Miss Connie Smith was secretary and Mrs. F. H. Robinson, convener.

DIXON'S SET PACE

Dixon Pencil Co. staff set a record that may be equaled but cannot be exceeded when 100 percent of employees subscribed for Victory bonds. Forty-seven out of 47 employees subscribed, Victory loan headquarters reports.

TOTALS MARCH ON

The Newmarket Victory loan total had gone to $158,050 yesterday. Sutton had reached $25,550, Georgina $16,100, North Gwillimbury $17,050, East Gwillimbury, $100,800.

East Gwillimbury had gone the longest distance towards its objective, with Sutton in second position.

FARMERS FACE LATE SEEDING

Faced with a late seeding, farmers should act on the following recommendations made by Agricultural Representative W. M. Cockburn, as a means of speeding up the work or overcoming a late start.

1. Clipping your horses enables them to "take it" and is almost as good as having an extra horse. There are plenty of power clippers amongst the dairymen.

2. Sow early varieties as far as seed supplies will permit. You can gain a week this way.

3. Use commercial fertilizer on all your spring grain. It hastens maturity. Most of York county north of the height of land across by the "Pinnacle" requires potash as well as phosphorus. Every acre of spring seeding should get some.

4. Exchange of labor between neighbors on high and low land will help both. Make a gang job of it on the high land first. Then the lower land will be ready by that time. Some groups of farmers have done this for years.

5. Emergency help can be made use of by contacting high school principals. These high school boys put in most of the crop on some farms last year. There are some retired farmers or former farmers in town who would willingly help for a few days or run a tractor in the evenings as insurance against "potato-less days" next winter.

Many other schemes can be worked out perhaps, but with prospects good for extra help to take off the harvest farmers must get their land seeded, and all of it. There are few difficulties that are absolutely unsurmountable, if the motto is "It can be done."

SCOUTS WILL COLLECT SALVAGE ON SATURDAY

The urgent demand for different salvage material changes according to the needs for war materials. At present the materials needed and their order of importance is fats, rubber, metal, paper and rags.

The need for household fats is so great that if collection were discontinued, the production of explosives would be stopped in two months.

Rubber, particularly tires and tubes, are much in demand, at least until synthetic plants come into production several months from now.

Metals of all kinds, particularly cast iron, are needed.

Regular collections of fats (in covered tin cans) have been arranged by the Home and School club through the public schools. A collection will be made on Saturday morning this week.

Prizes will be awarded of one war savings stamp to each child collecting 12 pounds of fat, and also a first prize of ten stamps, a second of six stamps, and a third prize of four stamps for the largest collections. All fat will be collected at the public schools and each child bringing two pounds of fats will receive a free pass for the Strand theatre.

A general collection will be made on Saturday afternoon to collect rubber, metals, paper and rags.

Boy Scouts and Cubs will be out in the morning with bags and string to tie up parcels.

Citizens are asked not to put out bottles, tin cans, etc., as these are of no value for salvage purposes.

Newmarket Man Wins First Week Loan Prize

Winners of the North York Victory loan salesmen's prizes for last week's work are, first, C. C. Gamble, Newmarket, $25, and second, Horace Pearson, Mount Albert, $15.

Honorable mention goes to M. O. Tremayne, Sutton, G. B. Thompson, Holland Landing, W. L. Bosworth, Newmarket, and J. P. Jefferson, King township.

Chairman Aubrey Davis is giving these prizes each week during the campaign, and grand prizes for the best showing for the entire period.

LACK OF HELP SLOWS DOWN SALVAGE WORK

Discussing salvage collection plans, W. A. Spear, secretary of the Newmarket Boy Scouts Association, and Fred Hall, of the public school staff, representing the Home and School Association, appeared before the Newmarket town council on Monday evening.

"What are your plans for this summer in regard to salvage collection?" Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales asked Mr. Spear.

"There hasn't been anything done since last fall," said Mr. Spear. "Collections have been made two nights a week, but they are mostly on the main streets. We are holding a salvage collection on Saturday but beyond that we haven't any plans."

The Home and School club can handle the fat collection better than we can. Paper is not particularly wanted. I'm not sure what the Home and School club are going to do. It is getting more difficult for us all the time. We want to get three loads of salvage out this week and can only get one truck-load out. There are only three Rover Scouts left and they have been doing the work. By the end of the month they won't be here. We can't put on regular collections. When school closes there won't be a boy around town."

Mr. Spear said that the price of paper had gone down from $9 to $7 a ton and that they hadn't made $100 profit all winter.

"Would Mr. McGann take over the collection?" asked Councillor J. L. Spillite.

"We tried to reach an agreement with him before, but he didn't have time and couldn't do it," said Mr. Spear.

"There is a boy who comes and collects our fat," said Councillor A. V. Higginson. "He sells it to the butcher and buys war savings stamps with what he earns."

"A good many youngsters are collecting fat and selling it to the butcher," said Mr. Spear.

"What fat collections did you conduct last fall?" asked Councillor Frank Bowser.

"There was a fat collection at the show and we worked with them on it," said Mr. Spear.

"How much did you get?" asked Mr. Bowser.

"Something over 600 pounds," Mr. Spear replied.

"What effort is being made to salvage rubber?" asked Mr. Bowser.

"None in particular," said Mr. Spear.

"Do you consider house to house collections better or the picture show?" Mr. Bowser wanted to know.

"House to house collections," said Mr. Spear. "There is not much in a show after the prizes come out."

Hold Practice Periods For Nursing Reserve

(By Mrs. R. J. Rogers, local officer, the Emergency Nursing Reserve, Canadian Red Cross)

On May 12, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., and from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m., there will be practice periods held for the various units of the emergency nursing reserve under direction of their unit leaders in the Stuart Scott school. This practice will take the form of a general review of the material covered in the home nursing manual.

All those who cannot come in the afternoon are asked to attend the evening period. It is hoped there will be as good an attendance as there has been during the past. At this meeting the matter of writing the examination will also be discussed and arrangements made, for those who qualify, to write the examination in June.

In June there will be another practice period, after which the classes will be postponed until September, when we will study the Emergency Manual.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all those who helped so generously in making the 16 classes held this winter a success.

Prisoner In Germany Subscribes $500 To Fourth Victory Loan

Survivor Of Weyburn Tells Story Of Courage At Sea At Davis Leather Victory Loan Meeting

FRED EVANS
before he went overseas

Lieut. Wm. Garrard, survivor of the corvette, "Weyburn," was one of the speakers at a mass meeting of Davis Leather Co. employees held Monday afternoon at the plant, sponsored by the relationship committee. It was a meeting to promote the sale of bonds for the fourth Victory loan. The objective is $20,750 for employees of the Davis Leather Co. and families.

The meeting was held on the ground floor, the men having arranged a platform at the east end with a huge Union Jack for a background. On display were two paintings given by the firm for a draw in which every bond purchaser will participate. The two pictures are by two local artists, W. J. Hopkinson and R. L. Chadwick. Mr. Hopkinson's is a scene from the well-known Lewis woods to the west of the town, and Mr. Chadwick's "October."

Capt. Aubrey Davis, president of the Davis Leather Co., introduced the two other speakers, Lieut. Garrard and Flt.-Lieut. Henry Cotton, a prisoner in Germany during the last war.

Capt. Davis stated that there were no commissions for the selling of bonds in the plant. He praised the splendid way in which members of every branch of the service were exceeding the quota set for them.

He called for three cheers for Sgt. Fred Evans of the Royal Regiment, a prisoner of war since Dieppe, who had asked for a bond for $500 to be taken in his name from his savings. Three cheers were followed by a spontaneous "tiger."

Capt. Davis then introduced Lieut. Garrard and paid tribute to the wonderful heroism he displayed when, after being torpedoed twice, and having a leg shot away, he still carried on, doing what he could to assist others.

He spoke also of Lieut. Garrard's devotion to the cause by generously and willingly giving his time to promote the fourth Victory loan.

Lieut. Garrard, standing before the microphone, leaning on his crutches, gave a graphic word picture of the sinking of the Weyburn, and assured his hearers that his experiences were the experiences of hundreds, yes, thousands, of men every night.

At the end of a moving description of what happens all the time to the forces, he pleaded for everyone to do all in his power to hasten the end and save more from meeting a like fate.

Lieut. Garrard lost his foot when it was crushed between the Weyburn and a rescuing destroyer. His back was injured when he was thrown into the air by an explosion.

"There wasn't a sign of panic or excitement," he said. "Everybody went about his special job as if it were an everyday affair."

Flt.-Lieut. Cotton feelingly described life in a German prison camp, speaking again of Fred Evans, who has been suffering the humiliation of shackles since last October, of Allan McDonald, still in a prison camp hospital, and of the boys who are missing or have lost their lives.

He told how he himself was brought down in the last war over Germany. He told how fliers dread fire more than enemy bullets, and of many times seeing nothing left but a pile of charred bones after a crash.

He told his hearers that 600 planes had been lost this year. Multiply that by six, and that represented the number of men lost—not all killed, but perhaps either prisoners-of-war, or in hospital. Trained men, 1,000 a month, is a terrific price to pay, he said. The immediate result of the meeting was a line-up of prospective buyers of Victory bonds.

Business Men Give $50 Bond For Guess On Loan Result

IT IS FOR YOU TO SAY, WHAT FOURTH LOAN RESULT WILL BE

Queen St. Town's Worst, Declares Mayor Dales

"Have you made any estimates on the cost of fixing the roads broken by frost?" Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales asked Councillor Frank Bowser, chairman of the road and bridge committee, at a town council meeting on Monday evening.

"I don't know of any other breaks at present," said Mr. Bowser.

Reeve Fred A. Lundy said that H. G. Rose, county engineer, said the testing time of the roads would be in another ten days.

"There is a bad break on Park Ave. by Trinity United church," said Mr. Bowser. "The water and light department undermined the pavement to fix the water main and the shorings were not put in. The pavement broke in the other day."

"There was a by-law passed in council saying that anyone undermining the road was to put in shorings," said Reeve Lundy.

"The work was done the worst time in the winter," said Deputy-Reeve Arthur D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee. "The men could hardly do the work, let alone put in shorings."

"I think the water and light committee should help pay for the repairs," said Mr. Bowser.

"Something should be done about Queen St. from Main to Prospect Sts.," said Dr. Dales. "It's the worst street in town." "Sewers were put in there two years ago," said Mr. Bowser. "The street will be scarified and gravelled this year."

"It isn't half as bad as when I lived on that side of the town," laughed N. L. Mathews, K.C., clerk and solicitor.

"I think it should be made a county road like Eagle St.," commented Mr. Evans.

Splendid Horses Go To Ottawa, Replace Trucks

Good horses are in demand while poor horses are not wanted at any price, Elton Armstrong, Armistage, stated after shipping 18 horses to an Ottawa dairy last week.

W. L. Stephens, Toronto, and Mr. Armstrong purchased the 18 horses, from 1,700 to 1,900 lbs. each, aged five to eight years, in York, Simcoe and Peel counties. They will replace motor-trucks in the capital city.

TAG DAY IS GRANTED

PASTOR DIES

Rev. Herbert Lee, 79, who was pastor at Wesley United church, Vaudor, about 45 years ago, died at his home at Stouffville following a heart attack on Friday evening. Mr. Lee has made his home at Stouffville since his superannuation 30 years ago.

CAMP BUILDINGS AFTER WAR ARE DISCUSSED

A lease covering the dominion government's use of the Newmarket fair grounds and town lots at Connaught Gardens as part of a military training centre was before the town council on Monday evening.

Councillor Joseph Vale, chairman of the council's industrial committee, said that he was surprised to receive the lease from Ottawa. He had thought that the matter was settled.

He took objection to a clause in the lease that said that the property was to be restored to its "original contour." Mr. Vale said that the understanding was that it would be restored to its "original condition."

"The town might want some of it left as it is," suggested N. L. Mathews, K.C., town clerk and solicitor.

Members of the council said that some salvage company might buy the buildings after the war and take them away, and that perhaps the town could arrange to acquire them.

"If there is anything that might benefit the town, we should discuss it now," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales. "You might get an option incorporated in the agreement."

"It is very little to ask for anyway," said Deputy-Reeve A. D. Evans.

Mr. Vale was instructed to ask for an option in the lease which would enable the town to acquire the buildings if it wished.</

HIGH-PRESSURE VICTORY LOAN SALESMEN

What is to be said of the Victory loan salesman who is not satisfied with the purchase that his prospect offers to make? The salesman who "hounds" or shames the prospect into buying what he can? Is he a "cad" or is he doing his job as he should do it?

The truth seems to be that if the salesman who calls on you lets you get away with anything less than your best he is not doing his job. The salesman must make his prospects feel that he is no ordinary salesman, that he is selling no ordinary merchandise, that he is selling something that is essential to the health and happiness of the prospect.

The salesman should use pressure, even high pressure, but he must not tell you that if you buy now and help put the loan over you can unload your bonds on the market in a few weeks or a few months. He should sell you to stay sold. The government could borrow this money from the banks, instead of the public, but the economists say that that would mean inflation. If the individual buys bonds now and sells them to a bank in a few months, or to someone else who sells them to a bank, he is forcing the government to do what it does not want to do, borrow from a bank. The government wants to borrow from you, and wants you to hold your bonds at least until the war is over, or until some emergency such as sickness or death forces you or your family to sell. For those whose estates are taxable the provincial government has now offered to accept Victory bonds in payment of succession duties.

As a national war finance committee advertisement said, when you buy Victory bonds you are supporting the war effort, when you sell your bonds, you are withdrawing your support.

If you look carefully at the honor roll which the Lions club is putting in the municipal office window, in promotion of the Victory loan, you will see the names of 44 former members (out of 56 trained) of the R.S.A. bugle band. Twenty of these boys are using their musical training in the army as buglers, members of bands or otherwise.

So there is no secret about why the band cannot carry on at the present time. The leaders, Roy Rhinehart, Frank Smith and Wm. Andrews, did a fine job for the boys and for the town. The band's greatest single achievement was the winning of "double honors" one year at the Waterloo band festival.

Since they were unable to carry on with their hall, on which the boys did so much work themselves, we are glad that they found purchasers, the Boy Scouts, who will be ready to welcome them back when the war is over and help them get started again. The hall is still serving the youth of Newmarket.

BRITISH COMMONWEALTH OF NATIONS

A newspaper makes the statement that Prime Minister Mackenzie King said in parliament that the terms "British empire" and "British Commonwealth of Nations" are used synonymously. Mr. King, who himself attended the 1926 imperial conference which coined the term "British Commonwealth of Nations," probably did not make such a statement, but if he did he would agree, we think, that when the terms are used as interchangeable they are used incorrectly. Why coin a new name if it has no new meaning? Why waste a new term which in origin at least did have a distinct meaning?

The 1942 issue of the Canada Year Book says that the imperial conference of 1926 "authoritatively" defined "the group of self-governing communities consisting of the United Kingdom and the dominions as 'autonomous communities within the British empire, equal in status, in no way subordinate one to another in any aspect of their domestic or foreign affairs, though united by a common allegiance to the crown and freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations'."

THE DAY'S NEWS

While weekly newspapers have the straightforward, if sometimes difficult job, of publishing community news, daily newspapers have to divide their energies and their space between the happenings and problems of the local community and the world community (to be). It is a heavy responsibility. Our Canadian daily newspapers, on the average, probably make a finer list of this twofold task than do the daily newspapers of either of the two principal users of the English language, the U.S.A. and Britain.

We note in one of our favorite weekly newspapers, the Collingwood Enterprise-Bulletin, that the officers of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, as elected at a recent meeting are: Wesley McCurdy, Winnipeg Tribune, president; A. D. McKenzie, Sarnia Canadian Observer, R. B. Hara, Toronto Telegram, and W. J. J. Butler, Toronto Globe and Mail, vice-presidents; Ian H. Macdonald, general manager, and Dora K. Trowell, secretary.

Mr. Hara and Mr. Butler as chairmen of two Canadian publishers' war finance publicity committees we have become quite well acquainted with during the past three years. There is ever more evidence of belief in the wisdom of going to busy men to get a job done. To him that hath shall be given.

MONTGOMERY

We don't believe that story about General Montgomery accepting from General Eisenhower, in payment of a bet, a $450,000 Flying Fortress, with its crew of 12 airmen to be paid by the U.S. government for the duration, and fitting it up as a private office for himself. If he accepted the thing, our bet is that he is using it as the U.S. war savings stamp buyer intended that it should be used. We are ready, however, to believe the story about Mrs. Roosevelt in Ireland asking a lady if she had any relatives in the war. Yes, she had a son who was a soldier in the Middle East. Her name was Montgomery.

A WORD FOR HORSES

There are going to be more horses coming to Newmarket this summer than for many a year. Should the town provide some sort of temporary shelter, until after the war, which would hold off the sun's rays in summer and break the cold winds when winter comes?

A NEW HEALTH VENTURE

What Lever Bros. are doing for the health of their 1,000 Toronto employees, as reported in the Financial Post, is an illustration of what a town, with even greater reason, could do for its citizens. It is evident that there has been some misunderstanding in Newmarket about the shortage of nurses, for Lever Bros. have just opened a clinic staffed by two doctors, one a woman physician for female employees, and by four graduate nurses.

The clinic handles about 400 patients a week, most of them with no more trouble than a splinter in a finger or a sore throat. Employees are encouraged to submit even trifling symptoms or injuries for diagnosis or care. Prevention is the underlying principle. The nurses visit the homes of all employees who are ill or convalescent. Employees are encouraged to join the Ontario Hospital Association's "Plan for Hospital Care" for industrial workers. The company contributes half the fees for this hospital insurance.

Here are some of the benefits which the company feels that it gets for its heavy expenditure on employee health—benefits which would also accrue to the people of Newmarket even through a much less pretentious public health plan: "It prevents epidemics by catching diseases at their inception. It prevents potential infection and complications from injuries by prompt medical treatment. It decreases days lost through accident and illness."

WORDS AS GODS

"Our peace and quiet of the last 18 months we owe to Russia. But ah, the fear of Bolshevism! What a pity that our little gods and little devils are words!" So writes an English friend to the editor of the Midland-Penitanguishene Free Press Herald.

Isn't it true that we are so often much more concerned with words than with ideas? Some of us fear and hate "socialism," but we approve of the Ontario Hydro-Electric, and we have no objection when Prime Minister Churchill declares that private enterprise and public ownership must expand side by side in post-war Britain. Others of us even go so far as to hate the term "public ownership" but we approve of government operation of the mails and the roads, and municipal operation of water and light services.

Is it just that we accept the "socialism" that we have but want no additions to it? Are we then conservatives? But there we use another deified word. In Canada men give loyalty to the words "Conservative" and "Liberal," particularly when the initial letters are capitalized. "What a pity that our little gods and our little devils are words!"

WHAT OTHERS THINK

ALL THE NEWS

(The Chilliwack, B.C., Progress)
Very few people in Chilliwack had ever met him or for that matter, even heard of him, but he played a part in what they read about themselves. As a matter of fact he influenced a great deal of what was written—and how it was written—in almost every progressive weekly newspaper in Canada.

Bill Harris was editor and publisher of the Vernon News until Wednesday night, when a heart attack wrote "30" to a newspaperman's career that was both hectic and successful.

One might almost call Bill Harris a firebrand. If he felt a thing was true, he fought for it tooth and nail, regardless of who he hurt or how much personal abuse he took. He was impatient with red tape, sham and hypocrisy. His tall, spare frame almost shook with violence when some of the people who spend a great deal of time trying to prevent a small town newspaper from doing the job it should do tried their tactics on him. He was champion of a free press and by free he meant free.

Bill Harris' life was a long struggle of recurring battles of this sort. He paid for it in what it did to his health. But he built the Vernon News into a newspaper that was without a peer in the weekly field in Canada for many years. His example encouraged other publishers to improve, to fight for the right to publish the news as they saw fit against those who attempted by financial or moral pressure to keep it dark or to twist it.

He was no sidestepper. There was only one way to do anything and that way was the direct way. In both the B.C. and Canadian weekly field Bill Harris for years fought, directed, influenced.

Bill Harris was a dynamic, colorful character and stood out among British Columbia's second generation of weekly newspaper publishers—the men who did not start a paper but took it over, built it into a community institution.

His influence will not stop there. The principles for which he fought and the sincerity and vigor with which he fought for them will serve as a guide for upright, progressive weekly newspaper publishers for generations to come.

The town council met on Monday evening. There were quite a few townspeople present and the centre of interest seemed to be the petition to restrain dogs from running at large. Two hundred and twenty signed the petition and 143 signed a contra-petition. The petition asking that they be tied up was defeated.

Among the multitude of matters that came before the council on Monday evening was a petition asking for a town clock.

WANTS NEW STREET

A request was made to the Newmarket town council on Monday evening by Councillor J. L. Spillite on behalf of Harry Smith, Gorham St., asking that the town council widen the lane leading to Jeffs Bakery at the back of his house and make it into a street, carrying through to Lydia St. in place of the street running through to Lydia St. on the west side of H. M. Gladman's lot.

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales asked that a plan of the proposal be drawn up and presented at the next council meeting.

USING ENGLISH MONEY SEEMS QUEER AT FIRST

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Collins, Newmarket, have received an interesting airmail letter from their nephew, Sgm. Gordon Collins, who is overseas. Sgm. Collins is a grandson of Mrs. John Collins, Newmarket.

"Just a few lines this time to let you know that I've arrived over here O.K. So far I've only seen parts of villages of Scotland and two villages in England. When I get my first leave I hope to see your folks in England. I may be able to get there this month, if not, next month."

"What I've seen of the British Isles is very nice, the lovely gardens, lawns, green grass and flowers, etc. The other night a couple of us went to a nearby village and visited a few dry canteens. It seemed kind of queer spending the sixpence for tea and cake, etc. However, I'm beginning to get used to the English system."

Sleep Out In February, Like It, Reports Soldier

"Just a line to let you know how Canada cigarettes are appreciated here," Sgm. Wm. VanZant writes the Newmarket Veterans' Soldiers' Comforts fund. "I had just run out a week before they arrived and I was certainly grateful for them. After coming down from a flying trip, about the first thing the crew does after getting out of the 'kite' is light up, so you can guess how important cigarettes are. They are one of the many comforts we get from home from such organizations as yours, so please keep them coming."

"Many thanks for the fags received today," writes Cpl. W. D. Loyal. "As always, they came in the nick of time and are greatly appreciated. Things here are very quiet and news is unheard of practically. Regards to all and the best of luck to the Vets."

"Just a few lines to thank you and the members of the Newmarket Veterans' Association for the cigarettes which I received today," writes Gnr. D. T. Clarkson. "They couldn't have come at a better time because I was completely out of smokes."

"It sure is great to be able to get cigarettes from home because these English cigarettes are rather expensive and they aren't worth much."

"Everything's going fine with me. I'd certainly like to be back in good old Newmarket but I guess I'll just have to wait a while with the rest of the boys."

"I've had the pleasure of talking to quite a number of Newmarket lads within the past month or so. I hear you've been getting some real cold weather back there this winter. The weather here lately has been wonderful. It's just like summer in good old Canada."

"Just a line to let you know I received the cigarettes in good shape," Pte. T. A. Drury writes the Veterans. "They were the first I had received from Canada and very much appreciated. I hear you have been having plenty of snow over there. I wouldn't mind seeing a bit of snow right now. We are billeted in a private house in Surrey and are quite comfortable. I see the odd boy from Newmarket. Saw Bob Dixon yesterday. Thanks again and give my regards to the Veterans."

"Thanks very much for the cigarettes," writes Pte. Jack Beattie. "Entirely unexpected and I'm sure the lads will appreciate the good work you are doing. We have been on rather a large scheme for the past few weeks, otherwise life is very humdrum. Quite a lot different to the last do, when we did at least get to the scene of action. Things are looking very good though all over and the boys may not be long in getting their wish."

"I am just taking this opportunity to thank you for the smokes that I have just received," writes Pte. H. Sutton. "They were gratefully appreciated by myself and the rest of the boys. Also a word to tell you that I have managed to meet up with some of the boys from town and they are all keeping in the best of health. So once again thanks a million and keep up the good work."

Gnr. A. I. Emmerson, in thanking the Veterans for cigarettes, says: "We don't go for these Limey cigarettes. They are pretty hard to get used to after smoking good old Canadian cigarettes."

"Received your cigarettes just at the finish of a big exercise and they were sure appreciated at that time," says Cpl. D. J. Carley. "We had no cigarettes or mail for three weeks and just about out of everything. Imagine a country where you can sleep out in February and enjoy it. The weather here is just like June."

Cards expressing appreciation to the Veterans have been received from Pte. T. Burke, Spr. E. Thompson, Pte. J. D. Cullen, Cpl. Earl Wrightman, L.-Cpl. Charles Gordon, Bandsman G. T. Blencowe, Pte. Jas. E. Woods, Pte. J. Williams, Tpr. D. E. White, Gnr. Fred Cunningham, Pte. D. Edwards.

Gnr. Lorne McCordick enclosed with his card of thanks a paper which the British army issues in the field to keep the troops informed on what is happening on manoeuvres. "I don't know whether you Vets had anything like this in the last war but you may find it interesting," he writes.

the local youth."

He made the following recommendations as considerations for progressive and thoughtful communities.

1. Co-ordination of all agencies such as Children's Aid Society, Big Brother Movement, Industrial Schools, Family Court, Juvenile Court, religious groups and clubs to bring about a more sympathetic understanding of our youth.

2. Broader use of the schools during and after school hours for play. Equipment for playing on school grounds and supervision for the children while at play.

3. A curfew law. This latter was emphasized as something not merely a matter of public sentiment but protection for our youth.

In another section of the convention held in the Harbord Collegiate Institute we witnessed what was felt to be one of the finest exhibitions of choral reading that it has been our pleasure to hear. Under the able direction of Miss Jeanette Reddick, a class of girls from the Lawrence Park Collegiate Institute presented the forty-sixth Psalm and Tarentella, by Hilaire Belloc, which brought great applause from a full house. Added to this was the apt presentation of "The Golden Journey to Samarkand" and Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "Trial by Jury." This was undertaken by the Harbord Collegiate Institute Choral Society.

Another of the speakers was Dr. V. K. Greer who gave us a history of education stressing the part that Dr. Ryerson has played in building our system of education.

During one of the afternoon sessions the Hon. L. R. LaPléche spoke of the need of a system of teaching that would be consistent with the needs of the time and urgency. His plea was for a teaching of real and true patriotism. "Teach Canada to your scholars, for there is no better place for patriotic instruction than in our schools. Be consistent in your teaching. Teach self respect, honesty of purpose, and above all teach neighborliness, mutual good and understanding."

On Thursday morning the time was given over to hearing the final contestants, among them Miss Mary Lou Little who did credit to the schools of Newmarket and the training of her teacher in oratorical work. Miss Little brought home the second prize after a really tough contest, competing with a group of winners.

Out of the convention came a call for better training for our teachers, better understanding of our scholars, more religion in our schools, the teaching of patriotism, and more and better co-operative understanding between parents, teachers and school boards.

TO THE EDITOR

Farm Business Associations in Relation to the War Effort

Editor, The Era and Express: I wonder if we farmers give sufficient thought regarding the transfer of stock and the irreparable damage which can be done should we, for instance:

(a) sell a neighbor an animal of any breed which should have been sent to the stockyards for slaughter;

(b) make any other deals whereby an inferior grade of stock is always to be found on various farms, and quite often the reason for this will be found or could be traced back to some deal made previously between two or more farmers.

If we all were to give some thought to the future we could easily vision a land where the farmer could be forever independent knowing that he could deal with his neighbor at home or go far afield and still be reasonably certain that he would be purchasing something of value both for himself and for his coming generations.

LE FILS ROYAL

is the highly successful product of a long process of breed improvement in France which has produced a superior predominantly thoroughbred horse, sound, powerful, capable, handsome, clean-legged, gay and active, but absolutely docile.

The original foundation stock was the famous "Norman" horses themselves descended from the Arab. To this have been added Thoroughbred Blood and Rigid Selection. The more recent infusion of Thoroughbred Blood has been recorded by the registration of the produce in the official French Halfbred Book as well as in the official Coach Horse Book.

His extraordinary characteristics (high quality, handsome appearance, excellent action, size 16-2½, bone 9½ inches, weight 1550 pounds, wonderful disposition) make Le Fils Royal exceptionally suitable for use with well bred mares where some increase in substance is desired. He is himself a jumper.

As the proof of the pie is in the eating, you are invited to inspect our mare La Fille Royale, by Le Fils Royal (out of the thoroughbred mare Iona G.) on the Sifton Farm, 2½ miles east and 1½ miles north of Aurora.

Having found his progeny exceptionally good, we have purchased Le Fils Royal for our own use and are making him available for general service.

POT POURRI

By GOLDEN GLOW

I heard someone remark that the weatherman must have managed to get the dates mixed over the weekend. You see, the weather on Good Friday was as near perfect as anything along that line could be—and Saturday as well; but when Easter Day dawned—oh dear!—wind and storm and rain! Consequently we all trailed to Easter service in raincoat, rubbers and—well, I won't say umbrellas, for at 8 o'clock the wind had assumed the proportion of a gale and no one could carry an umbrella very comfortably.

It improved quite a bit, however, by 11 o'clock, and by mid-afternoon, while still cloudy, the rain had ceased, and the wind subsided somewhat, so it wasn't too bad. By evening it was lovely again, and all day Easter Monday, too. However, today, Tuesday, it feels quite like snow! And what the rest of the week will bring is anybody's guess. I won't prophesy!

The odd thing about it all is that Easter was the very latest it can be—and still we have furnaces going, and very few have had storm-sashes removed. Other years, when Easter came earlier, we usually had our first English violets in bloom in the garden and I wore some to church; this year the first one to bloom was on Saturday.

Did I say it felt like snow a few sentences back? Well it is snowing! I think I'll have to speak to the weatherman about it—he must have better weather in his bag! Better weather? Bless my heart—as I sit here writing and looking out, the wind is getting up and driving the snow in a fury, slashing it against the south window.

The birds have all suddenly gone quiet, and have vanished somewhere—looking for a safe refuge, no doubt. My poor violets and the pretty pink and mauve polyanthus that satisfactory spring flower that blooms so early, and later has large ornamental spotted leaves all the rest of the summer.

Hold everything—I want to make sure the furnace is well supplied with coal! Well—here I am again—and the snow still coming down. Maybe this is the "Sugar Snow." I've heard the expression, but I'm afraid I am not certain as to its meaning. It has something to do with maple syrup! Can't I get away from the weather? And so many things to write about!

Easter bonnets for instance! How we womenfolk do love Easter bonnets, whether on ourselves or on our neighbors and friends. They blossom out annually, and are the subject of conversation for days, before and after. Those dainty creations with their flowers and floating veils. From flowers in hats our minds fly to flowers in our gardens.

Victory garden seems to be a phrase on every tongue in our community. One enthusiastic person, who has only a flower garden, vows she is going to grow green onions anyhow, and maybe some radishes among her flowers, and curly cress, too. I say, why not? Isn't that the idea of a Dutch garden, flowers in with the vegetables?

But speaking of Easter—I heard a broadcaster say Sunday is kept for three days hand-running in Jerusalem. The Moslems had Friday, the Jews had Saturday and we, the Christians, had Sunday.

Wesley Y.P.U. will hold their regular meeting on Friday, May 7, instead of Tuesday evening. Mr. Dixon of Unionville will be the speaker.

So automatically stores, owned by each, are closed that day and Easter celebrations were particularly elaborate there this year.

I know Christmas celebrations, too, are wonderful there, for I once heard a service broadcast from a shrine built over the very spot where Christ was born. And too, the bells rang out once again in Britain to celebrate Easter.

You wonder where certain traditions originate—traditions about Good Friday and about Easter Sunday. Why, for years and years nobody could have convinced me when I was a small girl, the sun did not dance for joy Easter morning as it rose, for I managed to wake myself up so I could see—and sure enough it did dance!

They all said it was my imagination and my mother said it was because I was winking the sleep out of my eyes that made the sun appear to dance. I expect she was right, too—but then it did dance you see, so always I like to think that there was something in the old tradition!

Then again, how we like to think of our beloved Robin Redbreast as connected with the tragedy of Good Friday. You see tradition has it that the robin, seeing the thorns pressing Christ's forehead—on the crown of thorns on his brow, placed there in mockery by the Jews, and seeing Christ's suffering, tried to draw out the thorn, and so was stained with His blood—and that was how our loved Robin came to have the red breast.

Again the tradition of 13 at a table, that one will die before the year is out, comes from the "Last Supper," where Judas made the 13th, you recall. There are many people who decline to sit if there are to be 13 present at the table. Again, speaking of the same event, Judas was supposed to have knocked over the salt-cellar and spilled the salt. Should we do the same thing, we must take a pinch of the fallen salt and cast it over our left shoulder to break the evil spell.

Tradition usually has its roots deep in ancient times if we take time to dig and search out the origin. One generation tells the next, and so they are handed down to us but quite often the reason has become so obscure we shall never know why we do certain things in just a certain way—we just follow tradition!

There, I think I've rambled on long enough for one Pot Pourri—and may I add when ending up that the snow is still falling but melting as soon as it touches the ground, even while it sounds like hail now slashing against my east window, so the wind is changing from the south—but in a bad quarter. Do we not say the old saying—also from olden times! "When the wind is in the east, it's good for neither man nor beast!"

"If you had told me before the war that I would pay the taxes I'm paying, keep up my life insurance, and still keep going I wouldn't have believed it. But here I am, doing all these things, and besides that I'm buying and hoarding more and more Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. The

WHITE ELEPHANT SALE

By Isabel Inglis Colville

I can remember when "white elephant" was the synonym for an awkward, like Simba's old man of the sea—something we were compelled to keep because we didn't know what to do with it.

The first white elephant sale that I remember, many, many years ago, featured a collection of these articles—and a motley collection it was. Of course, there were always some precious, quaint, ancient or just pretty, but a vast number had none of these attributes and were bought because of the cause.

I thought of all this as I walked into the schoolhouse at Bogart town and saw all the pretty and useful articles displayed.

Pretty they were and mostly entirely new, and made by the women of the community who are charged with the responsibility of seeing that the boxes for the local boys overseas are always abundantly supplied.

There were aprons large and aprons small, fancy aprons, plain aprons, something to suit the taste of each apron wearer. These were all made from material donated by stores.

There were also pyjamas, blouses, little boys' suits, a very beautiful floor rug and a handsome white rug. Then there was a display of baking that would make a professional baker green with envy. Such generous loaves of home-made bread, buns, tarts, layer cakes and pies. Also jars of maple syrup, cider, pickles and preserves, all made by skilful hands and looking appetizing.

There were dishes and beads and purses and manicure sets and a few old-time articles, a glass cream whipper, which could be used for a small churning, and a butter dish of a bygone pattern and some other things.

In the basement there reposed, sacrifice, was the first to go overseas, followed then by Major Conn Smythe. Despite quite a lot of yapping, compared with most clubs, the Toronto team hasn't done too badly so far as enlistments are concerned.

Military teams entered in the O.H.A. were charged no entry fee by the O.H.A. this year. So per capita the Aurora entry should get a $6 refund paid by the town league. Two thousand dollars was spent by the O.H.A. on hockey equipment for the armed forces, $500 went to the Red Cross, and $300 was spent on equipment for minor hockey. Another year the district juvenile hockey clubs, who all lack funds, would be well advised to file an early request for sticks with Secretary Bill Hewitt. You can paste that one in your back boys.

Three wonderful athletes to join the R.C.A.F. shortly are Gene Burrows and Bill Anderson, who played juvenile hockey with Newmarket juveniles, and George Morris, who has played hockey, basketball and track at Aurora high. Almost as fast as they come of age, the young athletes are rallying to the colors without waiting for a call.

"John" McComb is commented upon in the Owen Sound Sun-Times as follows: "The Aurora team has a couple of boys who are really terrific, but that's about all. McComb is their best man and he centres well. He has played junior hockey in Toronto and has had offers from the pros but prefers to stick to the junior ranks."

That needs little comment except to add that McComb has been out of junior hockey for two years and never played in the age series with any teams but Aurora (three years) and St. Catharines. Jack Stafford, according to the Owen Sound sports writers, was the star in the winning Aurora machine.

Our choice for intermediate honors, as you will recall, was Peterboro camp, and, commenting about the intermediate finale, we find the Owen Sound folks agree with us even though the facts do not bear it out.

"We still think Peterboro army is the best of the three," Peterboro, Aurora and Owen Sound.

Orillia camp, under Capt. Bruce Saunders, has lined up a strong softball team and has entered a team in the Orillia town league. They expect to challenge Newmarket as soon as the days get longer. Beaudin, who played on defence this winter, is one of their best players. The Newmarket boys previous to the fine weather were working out in the drill hall to get some pre-season conditioning.

Lacrosse, once rightly called "Canada's national game" and by act of parliament entitled to call itself that, looks to be in for a lean season unless the active service forces enter teams. So far St. Catharines, Etobicoke and Brampton-Mimico Combines are the lone senior entries. Hamilton, if they can get gas for travelling, will also play. The army does not encourage lacrosse to any great extent, although we have already seen fellows out throwing the rubber ball around with the gutted stick.

In the hands of green men, without proper supervision, a lacrosse stick is almost as potent a weapon as an axe. At one centre the M.O. was so busy dressing wounds from wild swings for several days that the sports officer finally called the whole thing off.

The officials say they intend to encourage lacrosse among the kids but they will need to give a bit more leadership than they have done in the past. We remember one year, when we were a kid that Joe Lally, the famous Cornwall sportsman, came through the district spreading interest in lacrosse and also distributing free sticks. Within a few years teams in the age series were functioning in Aurora, Bradford and Newmarket. The same thing can be done again if the powers that be will get moving. The interest created then lasted a good ten years in the district. That has been one of the lacrosse handicaps. Only when it reaches low ebb do the solons do anything about keeping the game alive. We hope Gene Dopp and his associates really mean to do something about it this year. Frankly, we have our doubts that it will be done.

Doug Smith, former Aurora boy, was elected to the provincial executive of the Ontario Softball Association at Guelph on Good Friday. No sooner does "Nig" get out of one office than he is drafted for service in another. Last year he was president of the Toronto Softball Association.

Bruce Oliver of Sunderland, another hard working sports promoter, was re-elected to the executive of the Ontario Baseball Association recently.

Bobby Watson, one of Canada's most popular jockeys, who rode Budpath home in the King's Plate in 1941 and was a buddy of Aurora's Charlie Smith, has joined the American army and is stationed at Fort Niagara.

Wesley brings out many colorful figures and some of them, like General Ike Eisenhower, have been big athletic figures. One of the heroes of the North African campaign is the New Zealander, Lieutenant-General Sir Bernard Freyberg. The general has had a varied career in more ways than one. He fought with Pancho Villa in Mexico, and just prior to 1914 was in New York, and, needing some extra cash, he engaged to fight an unknown negro at the Polo A.A. in Harlem. He flattened his opponent in one punch. The pay-off was in the dark and he got exactly $25. The next week he fought a lad named Smith and bumped him off in one round and this time got $25. He scored four more knock-outs and was on the verge of real big money when he quit because he "didn't like to hurt anyone." He was what is known in ring circles as a turned-around southpaw, and any expert will tell you a turned-around southpaw is pure poison. With world-war one on, San won a swimming contest in San Francisco and netted enough dough to buy a passage to England, where he joined the navy. On a daring exploit followed another, and he bore a charmed life. Guess the Naal fox of the desert, Field Marshal Rommel, didn't know what he was running into. Otherwise he would have had more sense than to tackle a turned-around southpaw.

My Lockhart, who played rural hockey with Kleinberg and Humber Summit the past few years, is a corporal at Borden. At the same centre is Louis Al. Boshka, who played baseball with the first Newmarket camp handball team and hockey for Kleinberg as a wing-mate of "Nuggets" Shore. Shore, contrary to rumor, is not in the army but in the R.C.A.F.

Our thanks go to Dick Atkey and Ken Walls of the Barrie Examiner and their comments on our recent all-star hockey selections. These two sports experts, who have been covering the hockey front for more years than even they like to remember, comment as follows:

"One of the best sports commentaries we have been reading for several years is 'Down the Centre,' conducted in the Newmarket Era and Express by Ab. Hulse of Aurora, who is now at Camp Borden in the armored corps. Ab. got around to his annual all-star hockey selections last week for the intermediate group composed of Angus Bombers, Newmarket, Brampton, Orillia and Midland. We largely agree on his selections. Right off the bat he picks Tommy Sills of Angus as the top defence-man in the loop. We recorded that as our opinion several months ago, and Mr. Sgt. Howard Leonard of the Bombers has the same idea.

"For his other first team positions Hulse has Truman Abram of Brampton in goal, Jack Wheeler, the former Barrie Colt, now with Newmarket provost, teaming with Sills on defence. Ted Lister and Joe Iannarelli of Brampton at centre and left, and the ex-Bradford boy, 'Chuck' Nesbitt, now with Newmarket army, at right wing.

"His second team: goal, Al. Wy-

Tagliabraci, Orillia, and Bert Shaw, Newmarket; centre, Bob Bangay, Newmarket; wings, Leut. Mac Craig, Orillia, and Bill Harris, Brampton, group leading scorer.

"Honorable mention is given to such players as Ernie Hughes, Newmarket defenceman, Nick Bangay, Newmarket left-winger, Morley White, Midland goalie, 'Scotty' Reid, Orillia centre, 'Barnie' Reid, Angus centre, Bill Simpell and Sid. Brodeur, Midland centres, and Joe Szabo, Brampton centre.

"With these selections we disagree in only a couple of spots. We put Wynski first in goal, with Morley White of Midland second, Abram third. On defence we liked Jack Sager of Midland and Shaw one jump ahead of Wheeler, who spent a lot of time in the penalty box and didn't flash steadily. Brampton came up with two strong defencemen in Jack Shropshire and Bill Burkhardt, ex-St. Mike's star, but they were only in on the tail end of the season.

The group as a whole turned in some mighty fine intermediate hockey and there were plenty of good players but on the results of Brampton's series with Peterboro it was not quite as strong a group as the Owen Sound, Collingwood, Camp Borden Rams and Walkerton series."

Since the greater part of this column was written a few changes have occurred. Lacrosse saw a surprise but welcome entry from Brampton camp in the senior series. Bing Caswell's boys have some fine gutted stick artists in tow and should give a good account of themselves.

Donnie Campbell, who featured in the O.H.A. group as a left-winger in hockey, is a much better lacrosse player than hockeyist and he has a nucleus of Ray Mortimer of Mimico, Wandy McMahon of St. Catharines and Lent of Brampton and one or two others. They

Thinks Old Home Town Must Be Very Different

"Thank you very much for the cigarettes," writes LAC Jack Waits to the Newmarket Veterans Soldiers' Comforts fund. "Canadian flags have been rather scarce for quite some time, on this unit at least."

"We are all in the best of health and spirits, waiting rather impatiently to really get in there punching."

"Thanks to the editor of the local paper, I have been very well informed of what is going on back in our little old town. From what I can gather, things are very, very different."

"We have just said goodbye to one of our chums, who after being with us for over a year is being repatriated on medical grounds, following the loss of an arm. The way in which he has

should do all right financially, as lacrosse centres in Canada still. Soccer saw Andy's shifted to the B group with Newmarket camp and one of the other Toronto entries moved up to the A grouping. After a dubious start the navy have decided to carry on and so the original set-up of four service teams in the same group continues. Leut. Thos. George is the secretary of the Newmarket team and will represent the 11 in the league debating circles if need be.

Grand alarm in reverse came to our hockey choices made some weeks ago, as Winnipeg Rangers ousted our last hope, Oshawa Generals, from the Memorial cup final. Those who wagered against our choices could have made a nice killing by following it through to the end, as eventually we didn't pick a winner.

overcome this handicap is remarkable and he is now looking forward to home and taking his place once again as a school teacher at civvy street.

"May you have continued success in the great work you are doing. Lots of luck to one and all."

"Cigarettes caught up to me today, I'm glad to say, as I have been out of Canadian smokes for quite some time," says Pte. Reg. Bell in thanking the Veterans. "My address has changed so much in the last three months that my mail has not had a chance to catch up with me. The Newmarket paper has not found me yet so I have lost track of the latest news from home, but hope everyone is enjoying life as much as possible in these times. All the best to my friends in Newmarket and thanks again for the smokes."

"Here I am again and I must thank you one and all for the cigarettes which I received when I came back off a scheme," writes Bdr. H. R. Brown. "The scheme was very successful and I think when the day comes that we get into actual combat the Canadians will uphold the high standard that you Vets made in the last war. I have met a lot of the boys from home and they are all waiting for the day when this mess is over and we can all return to our homes and loved ones again."

"Well, I must thank you again and we all appreciate what you are doing for us. It shows that Newmarket's sons have not been forgotten. Lots of luck. Hope to see you all soon."

"I wish to thank you who represent the Newmarket Veterans' Association for the carton of cigarettes you so kindly sent me," writes Gnr. J. Lister. "By reason of the U-boat gauntlet one feels doubly appreciative of anything arriving from overseas. Fortunately these came through all right, as I think most things do—but

Willow Beach

Mrs. L. Grant and baby daughter are visiting Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reed. Mrs. P. Graves is moving back to Willow Beach having spent the winter in Newmarket.

Pte. Alex. Powell was home for the Easter weekend. A pleasant evening was spent at Maple Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Matt, on Wednesday evening. Twenty-five friends were present and bingo was played. A collection was taken for war charities.

The meeting of the Willow Beach unit of the Red Cross was held at Mrs. Mies Sedore's on Thursday.

Mrs. Cecil McNeill is at her cottage this week. Miss Helen Huntley was home for Easter week.

ARE MARRIED 53 YEARS

Eighty years old on March 15, John Davey, 13 Niagara St., is enjoying good health. He and his wife, who before her marriage was Bella Lee of Stayner, marked their 53rd wedding anniversary on Jan. 21. Mrs. Davey was 73 years old on Feb. 23.

Unfortunately not all by any means.

"It is sickening to think of the losses which we all know do occur at sea, but no doubt the Allies will work out this problem satisfactorily before long, difficult as it seems. All continue to keep in good spirits over here and always glad of any word from home. I trust everything goes well with you."

A card of appreciation was received from Gnr. R. A. R. Harman.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Time marches on and six weeks or so after the ice has gone from the igloo controlled by Stan. Smith the boys who wore the red and white sweaters of No. 23 basic training centre have scattered to the four winds.

Bob Bangay, wily wizard of the puck game, has fared best of the lot. Bangay primus is now embarked on military training, which in a few short months will see him wind up with one "pip" on his brawny shoulders. Bangay, if he can display the same trickiness on the battlefield as he showed on the ice, will do all right.

Nick Bangay or Bangay minor, as they say in prep. school language, is still at Newmarket and sporting one hook on his sleeve.

Ernie Hughes, the goalie, has turned up at Brampton camp, of all places, as a member of the permanent staff. Hughes next winter may perhaps guard the cage against his old buddies.

"Flash" McMaster, speedy winger, and his line-mate, Nicol, are also moved. Tommy Stewart, the third of the trio, and Charlie Nesbitt, who is in orderly duties, are still at Newmarket.

Johnny Frow is with the armored corps at Borden while in a few weeks Hecan, the fiery defenceman, will also be a tank man. Jack Wheeler, still with the provost corps, is also likely to be seen at Borden.

Shaw, who captained the team, is rumored to be headed for a commission, while Wynski and Exelby are still at No. 23 and ready for softball. And, speaking of softball, the boys are readying themselves for a strenuous season in a campaign for the army championship.

Cecil Brown, the fireball hurler, is still on hand, but it may be taken as a certainty that Mr. Niles will not play this season. Respected Wes, who for the past six years has been in the thick of York-Simcoe softball frays, has decided to abandon the summer game. Niles, who obtained his commission a few weeks ago, has now returned to his own centre as an officer, but you can depend on it he will have a big hand in sports affairs at the camp.

Dick Fowler, who graduated from the Toronto sandlots to professional baseball in his home city and thence to the Philadelphia Athletics last season, where he was better than average, is taking his basic training at Newmarket and if the camp has a team in the Newmarket town league Fowler will be baffling his civilian opposition, which, judging by playing rosters, won't be so hot.

A rumor that comes to us quite a few miles from the scene of things is that the camp will drop out of the Newmarket town league this year or at best be represented by a scrub team. Reason is: the boys will concentrate on soft ball and soccer, and in addition, expect to see the best of the hardballers drafted by either the Toronto army team or the Camp Borden nine.

Along the grapevine we hear "Lotto" Newbold is slated for bigger and better things and will shortly leave Newmarket. Clients, the track star, accompanied Bob Bangay to an officers' training centre.

Syd. Bowman, maestro of the camp's soccer team, has most of last season's team on hand and in addition some of the best from T and D competition.

Last year the camp handled senior competition with no difficulty and consequently this season has entered the senior soccer series in the Toronto league. In all there are 20 teams entered, one of the largest entries that Secretary Charlie Shide has ever had. Grouped with Newmarket are such old standbys as Irish, Mimico Beach and Lancashires. Other teams are the newly formed Toronto to Slovac club, John Inglis Commercial, DeHavillands, and three other service clubs, Manning Pool Pigeons, H.M.C.S. York Tars and M.D. 2 Depot, who won garrison honors in Toronto last year. The Newmarket team will be meeting some tough opposition but should make a play-off spot. The other group is strong, too, with such well known clubs as Ulster, Scottish and East End.

Bonnie Rowe, who played hockey with Markham and Matheson this season after the immigration officials refused him a visa to play with Providence, will again be performing with East End. The camp will play most of their games in Newmarket but some will be shifted to Toronto for the sake of gates. Newmarket will see its first big soccer games in many a moon. Played properly the game is worth seeing and is capable of providing quite a bit of excitement for the crowds.

Jake Gaudar, the big defenceman who played with Angus Bombers this year and is a star at basketball and rugby, was married last week to Grace Scott of Toronto. Jake is with the R.C.A.F. at Borden.

Doug Young, former Detroit Redwing defenceman, who left the big money at the peak of his career due to a broken leg, has earned to the refereeing end of the game and handled the whistle in the recent Aurora-Windsor game in the Border City. The Aurora players came back speaking well of his ability to handle things impartially despite a partisan crowd who were on hand to root the Colonials to no avail.

Howard Spenceley of Mount Albert, one of the best boxers in the Canadian army and a lance-sergeant with the Engineers at Gibraltar for the past two years, when the Canadian boys really met the "old rock" a streamlined fortress, was among the Canadian soldiers presented with silver keys by Lieut.-Gen. A. G. L. MacNaughton recently to commemorate their long and arduous task. Seth Cowden of Schumacher, with whom we played hardball in northern Ontario over a decade ago, was similarly honored.

Harry Davis, cricket maestro at St. Andrew's college, is a bit worried about the lack of cricket balls this spring. A similar situation exists at all the prep. schools and wherever the great English game is played. It seems that the balls are all made in England, and in addition to shipping losses, a percent of cork is banned for export from the Old Land. A cricket ball is said to contain over 20 percent cork. A baseball will hardly be suitable even though it actually weighs the same as the cricket ball, as it is a "rabbit ball" compared to the deadish English sphere. Canadian manufacturers are trying to solve the problem out of the limited supply of cork available here. Camp Borden is the latest military training centre to form a cricket 11.

Charlie Rowntree came out of hockey retirement this year, as we predicted, and finally took hold of the Emery A.C. team which has been playing intermediate T.H.L. Charlie's team, composed of oldsters and tadpoles, has not had much success to date on the large ice surfaces. "Son" Rowntree was one of the best players on the team, along with Ches. Jones, Vase Shaw and Bob Green. Charlie can always be depended upon to uncover some promising youngsters.

Third member of the Toronto Maple Leaf family to arrive overseas is Lieut. "Lex" Chisholm, who this year played for Army Diggers, Jack Fox, a Leaf farmhand, who has already paid the supreme

CHRISTADELPHIANS

The Bible reveals that the precious promises made by God to Abraham and renewed to Isaac and Jacob concerning "the seed" had reference to Jesus Christ, who was to be raised up in the condemned line of Abraham and David, and who, though wearing their condemned nature, was to obtain a title to redemption by perfect obedience, and by dying, abrogate the law of condemnation for himself and all who should believe and obey Him. Heb. 2: 14-18; 1 Cor. 15: 45; Rom. 1: 3, Gal. 4: 4.

Ash—In loving memory of a dear mother, Susan Ash, who entered into rest May 7, 1942.

Gone is the face we loved so dear, Silent is the voice we loved to hear. Too far away for sight or speech, But not too far for thought to reach. Sweet to remember her who once was here, And who, though absent, is just as dear.

Lovingly remembered by son, John, Marguerite and grandchildren, Doreen, Howard and Noel.

Evans—In loving memory of our dear mother, Annie Tressa Hunt, who passed away May 10, 1941, also our dear father, Robert A. Evans, who passed away April 25, 1935.

Ever remembered by daughter, Dorothy, husband and family.

Haught—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Wm. Penn Haught, who passed away May 4, 1941.

In our hearts your memory lingers Sweetly tender, fond and true, There is not a day, dear Father, That we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by wife, daughter and son-in-law.

Hoover—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, R. N. Hoover, who departed this life, May 11, 1942.

The following interesting letter has been received by Mrs. S. C. Sheppard, Holland Landing, from W.O. Jack E. Lundy, and expresses appreciation to the Holland Landing branch of the East Gwillimbury Red Cross for a parcel which he received from them. The letter is dated Jan. 27. W.O. Lundy is with the R.C.A.F. in Africa.

"Once again I hear from your Red Cross unit and I would like you to pass on my thanks for the parcel that always seems to come in so handy.

"It arrived yesterday but in spite of the long trip and this perpetual summer heat down here, everything was in good shape. It was very difficult to work up any Christmas spirit while the thermometer read over 100 degrees, but parcels from home and greeting cards helped very much. And the boys try very hard to make the best of everything.

"Our mess, instead of being decorated with holly and mistletoe, was all decked out with palm leaves and jungle flowers whose bright colors I have never seen exceeded outside of Africa. Orchids are trampled under foot! Bananas, oranges and pineapples a few pennies for an armful.

"But for that little word from home we'd trade all our orchids and fruit. Thanks again."

WON'T BE HOME THIS YEAR, SAYS SOLDIER

"Many thanks for favors received from you," Sgt. C. E. Bannison writes in an airgraph letter to the Newmarket Veterans' Soldiers' Comforts fund, thanking them for cigarettes. "I receive cigarettes from Newmarket quite often and they are a godsend. I have been made a sergeant and at present I am instructing on motor vehicles. The work is very interesting.

"We have had a wonderful winter, not cold one bit and it is not very often I wear gloves. It does not look as though we will be home this year. I am now on my fourth year over here and I don't think many of the boys are left who came over in 1939.

"Thanking you all once again and all the people who try to make us boys comfortable, and a word of thanks to the Newmarket Boy Scouts."

"Thanks a million for the cigarettes," says Rfn. Walter Germain in an airgraph letter. "I don't know why it is, but cigarettes always come at the most opportune moment. I was on my last package and was very glad to receive some more. You boys are sure doing a good job. A good Canadian smoke is a pleasure, believe you me."

"I'm getting along fine and I like it swell over here. We have some good times. I've met quite a few Newmarket boys and it sure is nice to meet a friend from one's home town. I hope we're all back in the old town soon."

"First I would like to send my most sincere thanks for the cigarettes which you so generously sent," says Lieut. G. R. Foster in an airgraph letter. "I assure you they were appreciated."

"A few weeks ago I stood at the great war memorial at Edinburgh Castle, which contains the rolls of honor of famous highland regiments. While reading the numerous inscriptions, I suddenly felt (as all who have read it must) a surge of pride in coming from a race who count no price too high for freedom—pride in the knowledge that men and women of my generation were carrying the torch which was so gallantly upheld by yours.

"Your many kindnesses to make the job more pleasant for us here don't pass unnoticed—although we seldom have the opportunity to tell you.

"I should like to convey to you best regards from Cpl. E. Wrightman and Trps. Jim and Dave. White. They are well and doing a splendid job."

German Climate Found Much Like Ontario's

Mrs. W. S. Thompson, Willow Beach, has received the following interesting letter from her son, Flt.-Sgt. Wm. Thompson, who is a prisoner of war in Germany. The letter is dated Jan. 23, 1943.

"It looks as if the cool hand of winter is over Germany in earnest this time. Surprising how much the climate here compares with home. Perhaps it is somewhat colder at home but not a great deal. However, we do not notice the cold in the hospital, but evidence of it can be seen by looking out the window, the snow-clad hills and fields on either side.

"You would have a great laugh if you could see our cooking results. The favorite dish of our combine is bacon and tomatoes, mixed with potatoes with about half an inch covering of Yorkshire pudding which is really nice. For dinner we have the German ration and save a few potatoes for our supper, which, when mixed with some item of our Red Cross parcel and heated up, is tres bien.

"By the way, one of the Dieppe chaps, who is a good friend of mine, would be very glad of some cigarettes, as his people do not believe in anyone smoking, so won't send him any. Name, Stuart Binkley, rank, private, number 42970. Use the same address as mine."

"Far across the continent along a 2,000 mile front, another great nation, Russia, has been battling fiercely and valiantly for the land and way of life—in bitter cold and against an unprecedented war machine. Her people have withstood the attack, throwing themselves wholly into the conflict.

In China, after seven incredible, weary years of warfare against a brutal and powerful foe, the people have lost nearly everything, but have done so cheerfully, unselfishly, to preserve a free China, and create a better future.

From Africa to the Pacific zone, in blazing desert sands or steaming jungle, in stormy trenches, seas, or dark and perilous skies, our men have lived and fought and died, asking no questions, seldom complaining, doing their utmost to gain for our world—freedom. Can we dare world less?

We are bound in duty to an enslaved world to give everything for the cause. With our money we can buy war stamps, bonds and certificates instead of luxuries; our materials and property we can give or lend to the services; our time, knowledge and experience

WHAT PRICE FREEDOM, ASKS WINNING ORATOR

In the senior girls' oratorical contest, held at Newmarket high school recently, Miss Mary Murrison was awarded first prize for her able delivery of the following address:

"This morning I have chosen to speak to you on 'What Price Freedom?'

But first, what is freedom, that we put a price upon it? What is the meaning of this word, the call for which rises in anguish from downtrodden, war-torn Europe, which echoes from the scarred battle-fronts of a globe in deadlock, from the grim and dauntless ships at sea, from the fiery air armadas—one watchword, one hope, one purpose—freedom?

What is it that we cherish as freedom? Is it merely being on the outside of a jail or, more timely now, a concentration camp? Would we be free if we escaped only actual imprisonment? No, there are a thousand almost intangible things that make up our freedom—things we must think twice about before we can even describe them.

Our freedom is a peculiar mixture. It consists partly in the right of a soap-box orator to rant freely on any street corner without the terrible shadow of a murderous Gestapo to silence him by internment or death.

Part of it is a system of free law and justice, the officers of which we have not yet learned to cover before.

Our public schools with undominated teachers and books, our press free from the restraint of a dictator, are vital factors.

Our churches of all denominations, which we may attend when and as we choose, and the right of free assembly for other purposes, are also part of our freedom.

Our government of the people, by the people, for the people, is a symbol of it.

Our work is free, we are not placed as a master sees fit, cogs in a tremendous machine; we may choose our vocation, and do the work we like best.

Lastly, and I believe, most important, although a fact not often regarded, our homes are free. Our children are not taken from their parents at nursery age, to be thrust into schools which drill them in the hard and hateful ideals of some fanatical regime. We do not mistrust each loved one, fearing betrayal and sentence to death for the sake of a creed of "might makes right." We are free in our homes to live our lives, self-directed and untrammelled.

Perhaps we sometimes wonder why we resist aggression so stubbornly, so instinctively. Why do we not submit to the conquerors' yoke and by collaborating win some measure of peace? Because then we would have lost forever the one peace which makes life tolerable even in a warring world—peace of mind, of spirit. Because our blood is the blood of Raleigh, of Drake, of Wellington, of Nelson, of all the Britons who have ever died for freedom—British blood, which can never course through the veins of an enslaved people.

Because a passion for human liberty and human rights is one that has forced our democracy to grow with our empire, and that can never be content to live under the oppression of any master.

Because in each of us, the common people, from whom our greatest have ever come, is an unconquerable spirit that cannot live enslaved.

What price, then, will we give to ensure to us and to our children this precious freedom? Of London's defence it has been said that there unmobilized men and women, not used to war, stood firm against a vile assault, and died—for freedom. We must multiply this a hundred times to conceive the magnificent sacrifice made, during nearly four years, by all the people in these little isles which we proudly call our motherland.

Far across the continent along a 2,000 mile front, another great nation, Russia, has been battling fiercely and valiantly for the land and way of life—in bitter cold and against an unprecedented war machine. Her people have withstood the attack, throwing themselves wholly into the conflict.

In China, after seven incredible, weary years of warfare against a brutal and powerful foe, the people have lost nearly everything, but have done so cheerfully, unselfishly, to preserve a free China, and create a better future.

From Africa to the Pacific zone, in blazing desert sands or steaming jungle, in stormy trenches, seas, or dark and perilous skies, our men have lived and fought and died, asking no questions, seldom complaining, doing their utmost to gain for our world—freedom. Can we dare world less?

War Prisoner Wonders What Year Will Bring

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McDonald have received a letter and a postcard from their son, Allan McDonald, who is a prisoner of war in Germany. The letter is dated Feb. 10:

"Here we are well started into the New Year and I can't help wondering what this one will hold in store for us. But time alone will tell. I have received a gift of cigarettes, and believe me, in this place they are appreciated more than ever before.

"I have been hoping against hope for some more mail but it does not seem to be coming through so well. However, that is only to be expected. When you write remember to send photographs of the whole family.

"My arm is showing a marked improvement and I hope to regain full use of it in time. Life here is not too dull, as we have lots to occupy our minds."

The postcard is dated Feb. 25: "Received your parcel yesterday and it was the 'kitty.' That is the expression we use here for 'swell.' It was very good to receive it just at the time of my birthday, which was on the 23rd. Am getting along O.K. and hope you are all well. Please write often and send more snapshots."

RED CROSS NEEDS HELP WITH SURGICAL DRESSINGS

Newmarket raised $7,674 in the recent Red Cross drive. There is still more to come in.

During the month of April the sewing groups have shipped the following: 20 box linings for dressings, 33 toilet kits for women in service, 13 auxiliary bags for civilian women, 16 quilts, five sheets, 56 pads, five blouses, three head shawls, 24 gowns, 101 baby articles.

Many are busy with housecleaning and gardening but there is a great amount of sewing to be done and all are asked to come to the Red Cross rooms and help if at all possible. More help is urgently needed.

Surgical dressings are made in Trinity United church rooms, under the leadership of Mrs. Wesley Brooks. Many women are faithful to this branch of Red Cross work, from two to six o'clock every Tuesday and Friday.

Thousands of carefully made dressings have gone out from the group. Ten thousand dressings have been shipped this year.

We can donate to the volunteer auxiliaries; our blood can help the Red Cross.

However, as President Roosevelt said: "Victory cannot be bought with any amount of money, however large; victory is achieved by the blood of soldiers, the sweat of working men and women, and the sacrifices of all the people."

We realize this now; our loved ones we are giving every day, and our own lives we will freely offer if the time comes. What price freedom?

If those who claim the patriot's right to sing, As patriots should, "My Country 'Tis of Thee";

If those who stand and pray "God Save the King";

Are not prepared to keep their freedom's flags may not in freedom fly—

Then we have lost our birthright, you and I.

If the rights for which our fathers fought

Must for ourselves and children be maintained;

If once again sweet freedom must be fought

Or be forever lost and free men chained;

Then to high heaven raise our battle cry;

And as true patriots let us live or die!

If ugly tyrants hope to make us kneel

And beg of them to give us bread and meat;

If those who detest hope to make us feel

The weight of shame, and for our lives entreat;

May God give the decision for the right,

For, like our fathers, we will stand and fight.

MAPLE HILL

POLICE COURT
YOUTH, 17, BUYS BEER
AT BRADFORD, SPEEDS

Rather than pay a fine of $100 and costs when he was found guilty by Magistrate W. E. McElveen on a charge of obstructing an officer in the discharge of his duties, Dalton Graham, 17, of Holland Landing, chose to serve three months in prison, in York county police court last week.

The defendant's son, Harvey Graham, who was charged with him, was "given the benefit of the doubt" and the charge against him was dismissed.

In addition, both men were found guilty of having a quantity of pike in their possession, at a time prohibited by law, and each was fined $10 and costs. Harvey Graham paid the fine, but his father chose the alternative of ten days in jail.

Constable Ernest Prosser, a game warden, testified that he and Constable Buie, of Holland Landing, had been patrolling the Holland River swamp on April 21,
when they noticed a car parked
on the main road leading to the marsh near the East Gwillimbury boundary line. He said that they hid in the bush a short distance away and watched Dalton Graham come out of the brush, walk up to the car and then get out of the car and go to three or four other men.

He said that he saw the two Grahams approach the car and put bags into it.

"Mr. Graham, Sr., got into the car," stated Constable Prosser.
"The door was open. As I came up, Dalton Graham grabbed a bag and threw it into the swamp. Another bag fell on the ground. Mr.
Chew took after Dalton Graham
and I stayed with Harvey Graham. I told him that I had to seize the car. He argued with me. Dalton Graham then came out of the bush swinging. He struck me in the stomach. We tried to reason with him. He stooped and picked up the other bag of fish and started to run. I had to jump on him."

Constable Prosser said that Dalton Graham struck Constable Buie
in the face and swung at him with his fists.

Frederic S. Chew, Midland, a game
warden, corroborated the evidence of Constable Prosser. In reply to the questions of Crown Attorney
N. L. Mathews, K.C., he said that he had seen Dalton Graham strike
at Constable Prosser and Constable
Buie but that he did not see Harvey Graham strike any blows.

"Officers Moore and I appeared on the scene when Dalton Graham came out of the swamp (after throwing away the bag of fish),"
testified Constable Gordon Buie.
Stavner, also a game warden.

"His language was profane and he was in a fighting mood. He came swinging, especially at Mr.
Prosser. Mr. Chew and I tried to come between them and to calm
him, but he went on hitting at Mr.
Prosser."

Constable Buie said that just as they thought they had Dalton Graham calmed, he grabbed the second bag of fish, which was lying on the ground at the side of the swamp, and ran with it towards the swamp, and that when they placed the defendant under arrest
he had difficulty in putting the handcuffs on him and had to strike him on the head. He said that he later took the defendant
to see a doctor.

Questioned by the crown as to the part Harvey Graham took in the fracas, the witness said that the latter tried to interfere but that no blows were struck.

"When is the closed season?"
asked the crown.

"The closed season is from April 1 to May 15," replied the officer. He said that there were eight pike in the bag.

In his defence, Dalton Graham denied that he had run into the swamp with one of the bags of fish or that he had struck the officers.

"I was coming up the road and I saw my boy's car," he stated.
"I waited there for some time
up. There were some other men
there and they started to run.
Mr. Prosser picked up the bag and said it was in the car. My boy said it was on the road. Mr.
Prosser said 'I can hit you any place I want.'"

"I never ran at all. I just stayed there," continued the defendant.
"I didn't hit Mr. Buie. I didn't hit
anyone. I just kept Mr. Prosser
from hitting me."

"You knew these men were game wardens?" asked Magistrate
W. E. McElveen.

"I knew that Mr. Prosser was,
but not the others," replied Mr.
Graham. "I thought I heard that Mr. Prosser had lost his job." He admitted that he knew Mr. Buie
was a game warden.

ing not guilty to a charge of having inefficient brakes on his car, said that he had had his brakes overhauled a short time previously but that a pin in the rod controlling them had broken. He had since had his car tested by Constable Ronald Watt.

hurst, was fined $25 and costs.

neglecting to pay wages amounting to $30 to Henry Day, Ravenshoe, was required to pay costs of one dollar.

days in jail.

Constable Ernest Prosser, a game warden, testified that he
and Constable Buie, of Holland
Landing, had been patrolling the Holland River swamp on April 21,
when they noticed a car parked
on the main road leading to the marsh
near the East Gwillimbury boundary line. He said that they hid in the bush a short distance away and
watched Dalton Graham come out of the brush, walk up to the car
and then get out of the car and
go to three or four other men.

He said that he saw the two Gra-
hams approach the car and put
bags into it.

"Mr. Graham, Sr., got into the car," stated Constable Prosser.
"The door was open. As I came up, Dalton Graham grabbed a bag
and threw it into the swamp. Another bag fell on the ground. Mr.
Chew took after Dalton Graham
and I stayed with Harvey
Graham. I told him that I had to seize the car. He argued with me. Dalton Graham then came out of the bush swinging. He struck me in the stomach. We tried to reason with him. He stooped and picked up the other
bag of fish and started to run. I had to jump on him."

Constable Prosser said that Dalton Graham struck Constable Buie
in the face and swung at him with his fists.

Frederic S. Chew, Midland, a game
warden, corroborated the evidence of Constable Prosser. In reply to the questions of Crown Attorney
N. L. Mathews, K.C., he said that he had seen Dalton Graham strike
at Constable Prosser and Constable
Buie but that he did not see Harvey Graham strike any blows.

"Officers Moore and I appeared
on the scene when Dalton Graham
came out of the swamp (after throwing away the bag of fish),"
testified Constable Gordon Buie.
Stavner, also a game warden.

"His language was profane and he was in a fighting mood. He came swinging, especially at Mr.
Prosser. Mr. Chew and I tried to come between them and to calm
him, but he went on hitting at Mr.
Prosser."

Constable Buie said that just as they thought they had Dalton
Graham calmed, he grabbed the
second bag of fish, which was lying on the ground at the side of the swamp, and ran with it towards
the swamp, and that when they
placed the defendant under arrest
he had difficulty in putting the handcuffs on him and had to strike him on the head. He said
that he later took the defendant
to see a doctor.

Questioned by the crown as to the part Harvey Graham took in the fracas, the witness said that
the latter tried to interfere but
that no blows were struck.

"When is the closed season?"
asked the crown.

"The closed season is from April 1 to May 15," replied the officer. He said that there were eight pike in the bag.

In his defence, Dalton Graham
denied that he had run into the swamp with one of the bags of fish or that he had struck the officers.

"I was coming up the road and I saw my boy's car," he stated.
"I waited there for some time
up. There were some other men
there and they started to run.
Mr. Prosser picked up the bag and said it was in the car. My boy
said it was on the road. Mr.
Prosser said 'I can hit you any
place I want.'"

"I never ran at all. I just stayed
there," continued the defendant.
"I didn't hit Mr. Buie. I didn't hit
anyone. I just kept Mr. Prosser
from hitting me."

"You knew these men were
game wardens?" asked Magistrate
W. E. McElveen.

"I knew that Mr. Prosser was,
but not the others," replied Mr.
Graham. "I thought I heard that Mr. Prosser had lost his job." He admitted that he knew Mr. Buie
was a game warden.

120 ENROLL FOR BLOOD CLINIC, ACCEPT 73

The citizens of Newmarket and surrounding territory responded generously to the call for blood donors when 120 enrolled for the second clinic, held Friday, April 30, in Trinity United church. Circumstances kept a number from coming at the last minute, and of the 100 who appeared Friday morning a number were found to be running a low temperature, others were turned down after it proved too difficult to get the veins and a few realized too late that they hadn't followed the diet rules closely enough.

The final count of donors was 73, a figure which offered the sincerest gratitude of the Canadian Red Cross. Special mention should be made of Cpl. Owen of the recruiting office in Newmarket, who was making his tenth donation.

The donors included women and men from Bradford, Queensville, Sharon and Newmarket.

The next clinic takes place early in June and both men and women are given the opportunity of serving their country in this way.

Donors at the second clinic will not be ready to donate again, but donors at the first clinic, who did not attend the second one, will be welcome.

Everyone between the ages of 18 and 35 is urged to enroll as soon as possible at the town clerk's office. It is essential for women to have a check-up and the Red Cross wants to urge every donor to have a good breakfast within the limits of the diet card on the morning of the clinic.

This is a chance to save the life of a fighting man in the most real way.

Following are the lists of donors, nurses and helpers.

AGRICULTURAL OFFICE Loses W. A. Sutherland

Owing to the help situation on his father's and brother's farm, W. A. Sutherland, who has been assisting Agricultural Representative W. M. Cockburn since last September, asked to be released from this work to return to the home farm at Stirling at Easter. He has given excellent service to the farmers of the county during his short stay in the county and will be particularly missed by the Junior Farmers, with whom he had worked. During the past two months he had lined up a record number of boys for calf clubs and a new swine club.

The department of agriculture has engaged as his successor, James D. Moore, whose parents farm near Peterboro. He graduated from the two-year course at the Kemptville agricultural school and is now taking the degree course at the Ontario Agricultural College, where he hopes to return next fall to complete his course. His experience as a member of calf, foal and grain clubs in his home county as a junior farmer helped him to win the dairy cattle championship at the College Royal at the O.A.C. in March, and as he has held a number of important executive positions both at the Kemptville and Guelph colleges, he is well qualified for this type of extension work.

Mr. Moore is the first undergraduate of the O.A.C. to be taken into this field work by the department since the years of the first Great War.

visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Curl, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Palmer and Joan, Toronto, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Rynard.

The Misses Ilene, Beulah and Barbara Kester and Patricia Marshall of Whitby spent Easter with their parents.

COMPLAINS ABOUT

However, I see no reason why relatives should not pay for sending the paper to their boys, and it is our intention to keep the town's cost down as much as possible.

Mr. Evans' statement that the letters written by soldiers overseas to the Newmarket Veterans' Association "have not been published" is incorrect. We have not always been able to publish the letters immediately but we have always published them.

For instance, during the past year we have had to hold up, for lack of space, the printing of some letters together with a great deal of other material that our readers were asking to have published. This week, by printing two extra pages, we are able to "catch up."

So that every letter given to us by the Veterans' Association has now been published. Of course, we go over these letters and leave out or correct statements that would reflect credit on the writers or repetitions that make the letters less readable.

A newspaper is a public utility but it is also a business and it must make ends meet. The editor must judge what material will please the most people, what material must be published immediately and what material will not be any less interesting for having waited until space was available.

Extra pages are expensive. It uses up limited newspaper, and it is a strain on a depleted staff. The dominion government has recognized the strain that many newspapers are under by suspending for the duration of the war postal regulations limiting the percentage of advertising.

We might have printed only eight pages this week. It would have been more profitable, but it would have meant leaving out material that we are anxious to publish and that our readers will enjoy.

As time goes on, we may not always be able to print even eight pages. We have left on our staff of eight only one experienced male compositor-pressman. Six members of the staff are girls, and clever girls too, or there would not be a paper at all. But there are many things about a newspaper office and shop in which girls excel, including machine typesetting, there are many jobs beyond their strength and mechanical experience.

We just ask the public to give us a chance. Don't ask for rush printing jobs or unnecessary printing jobs. Don't give us on Tuesday or Wednesday news material which you could give us on Friday or Saturday. Don't ask for too much free advertising, and don't demand that it be on a certain page. Don't demand that "the editor" come to the telephone to take a news item or classified advertisement or message that the person who answers the telephone could take just as well. The editor may be helping in the composing-room, or may be trying to get an article written.

You haven't anybody working any harder for you than the staff of your local newspaper. Probably most of us could get better paid jobs if we wished to do so, but we are sticking with you, and we ask you to stick with us and put up with a little inconvenience at times. We didn't start the war, but we will help you win it.

WHO IS COMPLAINING?

There are two hard-working, war-scarred veterans in this town whose work deserves praise but they have been broadcasting their complaints about The Era and Express for so long that we must answer them. Mr. Evans was speaking for Jack Duffield, secretary of the Newmarket Veterans' Association, and Alex. McIntosh, treasurer of the Veterans' soldiers comforts fund.

Mr. Duffield's quarrel with this paper is that his publicity notices are edited in accordance with the style and newspaper practice followed by The Era and Express. Mr. Duffield used to be a printer and he used to be in charge of a weekly newspaper, but he does not recognize the right of every newspaper to follow its own style.

Mr. Duffield gets much free Veterans' publicity in The Era and Express. He publishes notices always telephoned to him in which he could save our time by writing his notices out and bringing them in. He usually requires that I come to the telephone. Or he will call me to the telephone from the midst of some mechanical job, after he has given his notice, to tell me that he wants his item on the front page in an "or else" tone. I don't remember him ever saying thank you for the favors we have done.

Mr. McIntosh has been depending on the Newmarket Era and The Era and Express for the past two years for mailing-lists for cigar cities. Mr. McIntosh brings us corrections and additions to the list, and we provide him with whatever number of proofs he requires. After working night after night, I have had Mr. McIntosh phone me of an evening and ask if the office would be open, and I would say, Yes, if I could do anything for him. For the last two years Mr. McIntosh has made probably two and three evening or Saturday afternoon calls a week, necessitating the presence of either myself or my wife in the office. I have repeatedly made the proofs myself.

The only comment Mr. McIntosh has ever made was that a proof was not as clear as it might be or that a mistake had been made in the typesetting. There have been no thanks, and of course we haven't been paid for this work which has run into hours and hours of my time and staff time.

In return we have statements made questioning whether we really mail the papers overseas—since so many copies are not delivered—and statements made that we do not publish the letters which the Veterans receive from the boys.

Now don't think that Mr. McIntosh hasn't done a grand job. He has. He has worked night after night, year after year, trying to get addresses correct, so that the boys would get their parcels and papers. He deserves great credit. And Mr. Duffield has worked hard ent campaign or combine the two?" asked Councillor Joseph Vale.

"I think an independent campaign is better," said Mr. Spear.

"How do other towns do it?" asked Councillor J. L. Spillette.

"They have different methods," said Reeve Fred A. Lundy.

"It seems to me we are only considering whether we are going to make money or not," said Mr. Spillette. "It is our duty to do it whether we make money or not."

"What are you doing?" Dr. Dales asked Mr. Hall, representing the schools.

"I drew up a systematic plan for collecting fats," said Mr. Hall. "The town would be divided into areas. The boys and girls would be called salvage commands and five boys and girls would collect the fats in one area. There would be a sergeant in charge and the children would wear buttons which they could make themselves. It would be their duty to make periodic calls and bring the fat to a central depot."

Mr. Hall told the council that the plan had not been put into practice because of the collections at the show. He said the collections would have been made as often as it was found necessary.

"Shows have put you people on the spot and upset your plans," said Mr. Spear.

Mr. Hall said they received between four and five and a half cents a pound for the fat in answer to an inquiry from N. L. Mathews, K.C., town clerk and solicitor.

"There is no reason why the children can't be organized and given positions of responsibility," said Mr. Hall. "There would not need to be any prizes given."

"Would that be the best way of doing it?" asked Mr. Mathews.

"We have as much work either way," said Mr. Hall. "The fat is brought to the schools and the children are given tickets, which admit them to the show."

"What is the theatre's idea?" asked Reeve Lundy.

"They are doing it for advertising," said Mr. Spear.

"We should give our blessing to some method, and settle the question," said Dr. Dales.

"I think the picture show is still the best plan," said Mr. Bowser. "Mr. McPhee said they could run one every two months."

"I think it should be left with the Home and School club and let them make arrangements with the show," said Mr. Mathews.

"That wouldn't affect all the children," said Mr. Spillette.

"The older children, grades six, seven and eight, would take the responsibility," said Mr. Hall. "There are two objections to the picture show. Sometimes the shows are not suitable and some claim it should be done as a patriotic duty."

"If the shows were educative it would be all right," said Mr. Spillette.

"It should be absolutely a kid's picture," said Mr. Bowser. "They could have the picture show as their reward," Mr. Spillette said.

"Only the more successful candidates would get a reward that way," said Dr. Dales.

"There would be no competition the way we planned it," said Mr. Hall. "They would just go from house to house to collect fats."

"If the Home and School club were given permission to choose the show, the council might even help pay for it," said Dr. Dales.

"The matter was turned over to the Home and School Association, with a promise from Dr. Dales that the council would give them any support they needed."

Mr. Spear said that the Scouts would collect rubber and metal, but were going to discontinue the collection of paper.

Gathering the Sport Facts

The Detroit "Tigers" have a problem on their hands this spring. Last summer they handed out a $55,000 bonus to a young Michigan college star, Dick Wakefield, just for his signature on a contract. After sending him to their Texas League farm club at Beaumont, they brought him back to the majors this year.

Down at Beaumont, Wakefield tore down the fences with his stupendous hitting. His manager, the veteran Steve O'Neill, said that Wakefield was a natural hitter and a sure-fire rival of DiMaggio and Williams. But the "Tigers" have run into a snag. Although Wakefield has been holding his end up at bat his fielding has left a lot to be desired.

Wakefield was expected to take over the sunfield in Briggs Stadium, but every time he took his place in the field he managed to let in more runs than he could possibly bat in.

Only a few players can make a good job of playing the sunfield in any ball park. Many an outfielder in our town league can testify how hard it is to see the ball leave the bat with the sun shining in their eyes.

The sunfield is the meanest position in which a ball player can be put. One of the greatest hardships of the sunfielders is that those who become proficient at playing while they look into the sun's rays never seem to be able to get away from the job. Good managers will stick right to a good sunfielder and let other
